RE: SWISS CITIZENSHIP

Dear Mr. Cambata,

I confirm that – pursuant to the Swiss Law – in order to be eligible for the Swiss citizenship, the candidate must be «integrated into Swiss society, familiar with Swiss habits, customs and practices, abides by Swiss law and does not pose a risk to Swiss internal or external security» (Federal Act on the Acquisition and Loss of Swiss Citizenship, art. 14).

In order to prove what above, the candidate must produce – among others – his criminal and judicial records, which must be clear in order to comply with the Swiss provisions.

Any condemnation recorded on this record will represent and impediment to the process of Swiss naturalization.

Kindest Regards

avv. José Marco Casellini
